Yea, geptlemen, we had four tickets in the field the last raco—Lincoln and Hamilia, Bell and Everett—the Bell and Everett ticket was a kind of kangaron ticket, with all the strength in the logs—(great laughter)—and there was a Douglas and Johnson, and a Breckingidge and Lans ticket.
As God is my judge, that was the meanest and shabbiest tucket of the four that was in tha field. Lincoln was elected, fairly and

MORE FORCES NEEDED.

The events of the past week have somewhat painfully impressed the publie mind with the necessity for the accumulation of more forces at almost every point of the immensely extended field of military operations, and for the exercise of more energy in the management of the campaign. We suppose it is the want of forces alone that causes the present inactivity, and therefore have no complaint to make that men or generals do not do their duty. General Banks ought not to be compelled to ratire along the Shenandoah valley. leaving the people who came to the support of the Ution cause as he advanced to the terrible desolations the secession savages bring on them. General McDowell ought not to be compellto remain inactive at Fredericksburg. giving the revels opportunity to impress the whole population of the broad plain from Charlottesville down, and to operate near Richmond without constraint from a force approaching by another route. In the peniusula we have, also, an inadequate force to support the gunhoat advance on the James river, and are compelled to return almost from before Richmend, and to await some oth or or further accession of force to support the squadron. The same general condition is equally apparent on the Mississippi and at the camps before Corinth. Force is needed in western nessee against the guerillas, in Virginia against them, and in Missouri and Arkansas for the same purpose. And not only are forces required in these several districts, but energy is needed in their management. It is unpleasant to read accounts such as the capture of a railroad train at Cave city, almost in the heart of Kentucky, and the more recent successful raid of a rebel band on a railroad guard near Front Royal Virginia, and another and a greater one on the advance of Gen. Banks after it returned from Harrisonburg. There may be something of strategy claimed for these retrograde movements, but it is impossible to see what such strategy gains. All delays and retrograde movements are calamities only, let who will attempt to disguise them, and just now they are peculiarly unsatisfactory. They convey to others than curselves the impression that an ebb in the tide of affairs has set spects. The peculiar attitude of affairs and crumble into ruin-the abroad, the abundance of falsehood still may commit the national suicide of dia-oirculated there in the interest of the solving this Union, but all this must occur rebellion, and the readiness, both in England and France, to believe every falsehood and accept every false coloring learning to the rebel side, admonish

DR. LANGLEY'S

The rebel pickels nocupy the back on one side of the river, on the other Gen. Stoneman with Prof. Lowe made a balloon reconnoisance this morning from Garna Mile reaching an altitude of 600 feet. An admirable view was had of Richmond and the surrounding country. The camps of the enemy within the limits of the corporation were seen, also the arrivals and departure of Railway trains between New Bridge and Richmond. Very few troops were visible, but to the left of the city on the line of the mail coach road leading to Bottoms Bridge a large number of troops were seen.
